6. Reasons for Recommendation (Use additional sheets where necessary):

An explanation of the preliminary hearing process was presented to subject. He/She had no questions about the process or the role of the Hearings Examiner. A review of the Form A was also conducted. Subject offered no questions about the form and the hearing proceeded. Subject reports that he/she received the Form A in a timely manner and had no questions or concerns to his/her rights at this hearing.

The following alleged parole violations were considered:

Rule #1A: Irresponsible conduct. Conduct on 10/18/03 with respect to arrest by Boston PD on charges of operating after suspension of license (subsequent offense) and operating negligently.

Subject disagrees with the police version of this violation. Subject explains there was no chase as indicated. Subject was just driving down the street. His muffler is loud and he was told to pull over. Subject claims he did so. Subject indicates he has never had a valid driver's license. He was operating the motor vehicle on a valid drivers permit. He had a licensed driver in the car as required. Subject indicates he obtained this learners permit approximately one year ago and it was still valid.

Subject denies speeding. Subject claims he was going between 20 and 25 MPH.

Subject hopes to appear in court with his drivers permit and the licensed driver that was in the car and have these charges dismissed.

Subject explains the disparity between his version and the police as a vendetta by the arresting officers. The officers knew him from prior encounters and subject has been arrested by them in the past.

Based on the attached Boston Police incident report, pending charges in Roxbury District Court and subject past criminal history of similar offenses, H.E. finds reasonable grounds to believe subject acted irresponsibly in violation of parole condition Rule #1A.

Rule #1B: Irresponsible conduct. Conduct on 10/24/03 and 11/5/03 with respect to failure to remain home for a scheduled visit.

Subject admits he was late getting home to meet with his Parole Officer on 10/24/03. Subject claims he was filling out applications for work at the Watertown Mall and lost track of time.

On 11/5/03, there was a shooting at Dudley Station. It was pandemonium at the station and, as a result, he arrived home late. He had just missed his Parole Officer.

Subject admits he did not try to call his Parole Officer to explain his situation on either occasion. Subject notes he was "low on minutes" and did not want to use his phone.

Based on the evidence and subject's statements and admissions, H.E. finds reasonable grounds to believe subject violated parole condition Rule #1B.

Rule #1C: Irresponsible conduct. Conduct on 11/14/03 with respect to failure to show up for preliminary hearing.

Subject admits failure to appear for his preliminary hearing originally scheduled at the Region 2 parole office. Subject states he accompanied his pregnant girlfriend to her doctor's appointment and his hearing completely slipped his mind.

Based on the evidence and subject's statements and admissions, H.E. finds reasonable grounds to believe subject violated parole condition Rule #1C.

Rule #1D: Irresponsible conduct. Conduct on 11/20/03 and 11/21/03 with respect to failure to report as instructed.

Subject admits at this point he was afraid to report.

Based on the evidence and subject's statements, H.E. finds reasonable grounds to believe subject acted irresponsibly in violation of parole condition Rule #1D.

Rule #2A: Failure to notify Parole Officer of 10/18/03 arrest within 24 hours.

Subject admits to this violation. Subject states he wanted to tell his Parole Officer in person so he waited until he reported the following week.

Based on admission, H.E. finds reasonable grounds for violation of parole condition Rule #2A.

Rule #2B: Failure to notify Parole Officer of change in residence which occurred on or about 11/14/03 within 24 hours. Whereabouts unknown thereafter.

Subject claims he did not move from his approved home. Subject explains his father works long hours and he probably did not know he'd been home. Subject admits he spent a lot of his time at his girlfriends but claims he slept at his father's home. Subject notes he often came in late and left early.

Based on statements of subject's home sponsor to Parole Officer as noted in attached PVR and running records, H.E. finds reasonable grounds for violation of parole condition Rule #2B.

Subject admits he knew he was in trouble with his Parole Officer. When he received the message to report he did not know what to do. Subject admits he did not turn himself in, instead waiting until they arrested him. Subject was arrested leaving his girlfriends home.

Subject was paroled to live with his father and subject states his father is his best friend. Subject claims under the table work which he knew was not acceptable to Parole. Subject notes his Dad got him on the Union list but he is still waiting to be called for work. Subject states he had no luck finding work elsewhere as directed by Parole Officer. He did find work at the Boston Globe on a per diem basis. He was called to work only one day.

Subject describes his criminal history as mainly driving violations and marijuana possession. Subject violated his probation because he failed to meet his probation officer. Subject claims he was in the hospital suffering from gunshot wounds at the time but the court would not accept this as an excuse.

Subject has failed to respond to supervision and Parole Officer directives. He failed to report or to make himself available for his Parole Officer's visits. He was given an opportunity to have his hearing in the community and failed to show up. He was then given chances to report and failed to do so.

Based on the sum of the evidence, the above noted parole violations, and pending court case, H.E. finds probable cause to hold subject in custody for a final revocation hearing and decision of the Parole Board. H.E. notes subject wraps up this sentence on 2/1/03.
